

Poata Ah-Voa

What is it in your life that you used to be excited about? Are there any dreams that you have squashed or goals of yours that have faded over time? Have you ever dreamed of giving back to your loved ones? Poata Ah-Voa fulfilled that dream.

Poata was born on May 07, 1971, in Samoa. Although there were not many male Samoan role models while Poata was growing up, he did not let that hinder him from achieving his goal. He was especially interested in the telecommunications industry, where he worked as a telephone technician for 16 years. However, his income did not satisfy the desire in his heart to give back to his mother while she is still alive. Fortunately, a family friend introduced Poata and his wife Deborah to ACN, and he immediately saw a way to fulfil his dream for his mother.

On May 16, 2006, Poata attended the official launch of ACN in New Zealand. After getting started, he became the first Pacific Islander to reach the position of Team Coordinator, in only 57 days, and he and Deborah have a goal of being the first Samoan Regional Vice Presidents in the world for ACN!!! Prior to ACN, Poata had no network marketing background, and he had no idea what 'residual income' was. Poata has come a long way from his humble beginnings but he thanks God each day for the great blessing ACN has been for him and his family. Every day is a new day for him in building his business, and he believes no obstacle is too great for him to overcome.

Today he encourages his team to keep on going. His life example teaches us to follow our dreams, no matter how great. He also believes that as you keep faith in the forefront of your mind, you will, using ACN as the vehicle, rise above those difficulties and walk in the freedom that God has prepared for everyone.
